What's Lurking on your Sofa?

Cosmetics & Food

Lotions, cream and makeup can bleed from a person's skin into a sofa. Crumbs or liquid food spills can seep in providing nutrition for bacteria and other microorganisms.

Dust & Dirt

The fabric from our clothes and furniture itself release tiny dust particles into the air with every use. Plus dirt is trafficked in the people and pets entering your home. These tiny pieces of dust and dirt float in the air and eventually rest on your floor, carpets or your furniture resulting of household dust.

Sweat & Skin Cells

Humans produce upto 26 gallons of sweat per year. This, along with body heat provides an ideal environment for fungi and bacteria to grow. The human body sheds about 500 million skin cells per day. These cells build up over time and provide microbes with food.

Fungal Spores & Bacteria

Feather and synthetic materials can contain between 4 and 17 different species of fungus. These fungi aggravate asthma and other allergies. Skin, oral, intestinal/fecal and genital bacteria can sink into your furniture.

Chemicals & Allergens

Finishing agents and other chemicals from the environment which can be harmful to your health. Many substances like dust mites, dead skin from insects, pets all contribute significantly to allergies and asthma.

Dust Covers and Fitted Covers

We custom make covers to protect your valuable furniture. Be it dust covers for when the furniture is not in use for extended periods to fitted covers for everyday use and protection. Our customized covers ensure the longevity of your furniture.

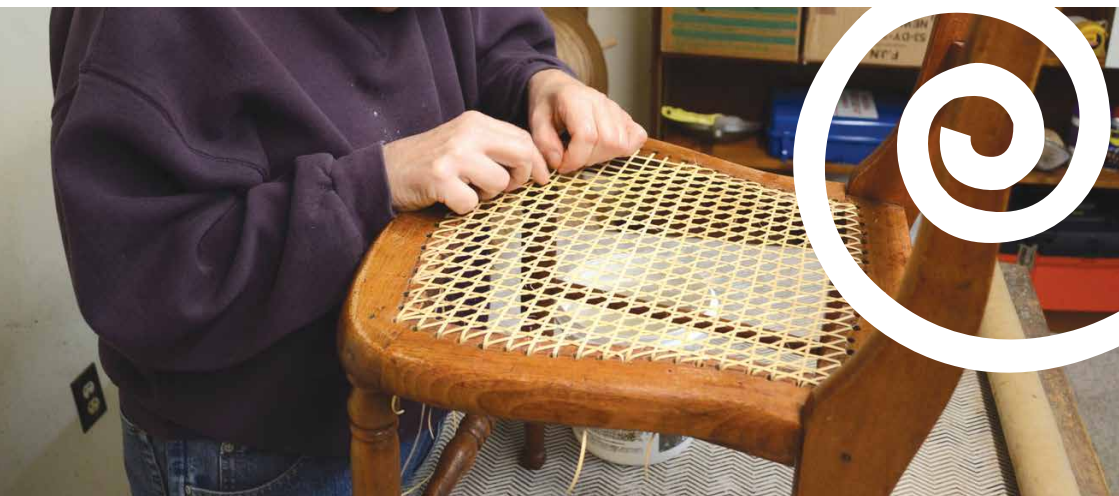

Scotch Guard Fabric Protection

Whether you are entertaining a large crowd or relaxing at home with your family, it is hard to always protect your furnishing fabrics from everyday thrills and spills. Scotch Guarding offers you protection against most liquids letting you enjoy your furniture with added peace of mind.

Re-Rattaning

With time and natural wear and tear your antique or heirloom rattan furniture may need some TLC. Our expert weavers use natural cane to replace sagging or broken rattan so you can continue to enjoy your furniture in comfort and style.
